Foreign Citizens and the Local Elections in Norway, 1995

Overview
Type	Norwegian Election Studies
Identification	NSD0477
Version	Production Date: 2015-07-03 Første NSD versjon Notes Data from Statistics Norway are documented and prepared, second NSD edition.
Abstract Beginning in 1983 all foreign citizens who have been registered as a citizen in Norway for at least three years before the election day, have the right to vote in local government elections. In 1995 this group accounted for 2.7 per cent of those entitled to vote. The survey on foreign citizens and local government elections 1995 attempt to get some insight in the voting behaviour among this group. The questionnaire was sent out shortly after the election day to a total of 7295 persons. The questionnaire includes questions about election turnout, choice of policy, reason for choice of policy, attempts to influence political decisions, reasons not to participate in the election and knowledge about the voting procedure. 41.9 percent of the respondents returned the questionnaire. A weight have been made that takes into account how the sample was selected, nationality and election turnout. The weight should be used when speaking of the population. Statistics Norway conducted the survey on behalf of the Norwegian Ministry of Local Government and Labour. For access to the dataset, use the NSD application form: http://www.nsd.uib.no/bestilledata/survey/

Sampling

Sampling Procedure

Stratified random sample

Population: 91 556

Random sample: 7 500

Disposal: 307

Gross sample: 7 193

Net sample: 3 015

Weighting

One must use the total weight when speaking of the population. The total weight is put together by multiply three weights (who is not included in the present file).

Weight 1: The draught of the sample subjects were made disproportionately, due to that people from certain countries, from experience, not participate to the same extent as people from other countries. Weight 1 give the units in each stratum a weight which is inversely proportional to the draught probability, and thereby corrects for variations in the draught resistance.

Weight 2: Participation in the survey varies considerably according to foreign citizenship. Weight 2 carry out a stratification that equalizes differences in response rate so that each group is given proper weight relative to their share of the gross sample.

Weight 3: As good as almost all groups there is a strong over-representation of voters in the net sample. Weight 3 make an adjustment by those who voted weighted down, and those who did not vote weighed.

The three weights are multiplied together in a collective weight that is designed so that the sum of the weight of the net sample is equal to the gross sample size.

Groups with high weights: Danes and Swedes, who were initially undersampled. There is especially high weights for those who did not vote. Britons, Pakistanis and Turks who did not vote are also making high weights, the British because of undersampling, the other due to poor response rate.
